

Name

Ann, Connolly

Enter your submission here

It is important that there is adequate public green space available for people to enjoy and to foster good mental and physical wellbeing. Building more housing in such an environmentally natural resource runs contrary to studies that show that proper recreational facilities is necessary to a healthy community.